

WINGS ACROSS AMERICA

An inspirational cutting-edge digital history project, educating and motivating generations with the incredible history of the Women Airforce Service Pilots, WASP of WWII, first women in history to fly America's military aircraft.

WASP ON THE WEB

Wings Across America's WASP website, with 2,000 pages of resources, games, videos, audio, photos, articles, and primary records. The site, which won "Yahoo Pick of the Week," was reviewed in the New York Times. A priceless online resource, WASP on the WEB is linked by PBS, Britannica and NASA.

"Thank you so much for your truly remarkable efforts in documenting the history of the Women Air Force Service Pilots. You are breaking new ground in this educational effort that will inspire and captivate generations to come. The WASP were and still are my role models."

Eileen M. Collins, LTC, USAF NASA Astronaut

DIGITAL VIDEO ARCHIVE

Wings Across America's most priceless resource: digital video interviews with 114 WASP, most in their own homes. This archive will eventually be encoded and uploaded as searchable video information, containing 300 hours of footage. Still in the fundraising stages, this project has gained international recognition from The Voice of America, the Pentagon Channel and the Air Force News. YOU CAN HELP build this valuable, educational resource of tomorrow by supporting Wings Across America:

"I have the utmost respect for all members of the Women's Air Force Service Pilots. They were hard working, dedicated pilots who served our country well, playing an important part during the war. 'Wings Across America' will be invaluable in preserving the WASP history and teaching the current and future generations of their proud history."
Chuck Yeager, BRIG. GEN., USAF, Ret.
